We often find ourselves at a crossroads when trying to make good and ethical decisions when dealing with the subject of alcohol and addiction issues. We will discuss situations that illustrate the complexity of making these decisions in your daily practice, and learn the signs that can point you in the right direction.